

USFWS Migratory Bird Program Leader in the Southwest Region

We are recruiting the next leader of our Migratory Bird program looking for a candidate who can lead this program and join our regional leadership team here in Albuquerque. We have a strong migratory bird program with a creative staff working across programs and regions to advance and influence bird conservation across the Southwest working with our state partners and a range of private sector partners and stakeholders.

As you know, this leader will be a part of our regional leadership team that gets to work with a team of 800 Service employees in more than 100 field offices from Texas and Oklahoma west to New Mexico and Arizona, who find value in each other's experience and perspective and are working hard to meet our conservation opportunities as part of the finest conservation organization in the world.

At the heart of the U.S Fish and Wildlife Service's work in the Southwest United States is an intersection of conservation and adventure. In Albuquerque, diverse cultures and traditions, authentic art and dynamic traditions have helped shape our centuries-old story. No matter your interests, the city and surrounding communities have countless places to explore. Sample traditional New Mexican cuisine perfected over decades; experience world-class museums, check out parts of historic Route 66; or float high above the city in the hot air ballooning capital of the world — a sight sure to change your perspective.

More than 310 days of sunshine, New Mexico's outdoors offer numerous opportunities along the Rio Grande River and all kinds of adventures within a couple hours of downtown. Nationally recognized rivers such as the San Juan, the Rio Grande River Gorge, hiking Hermit's Peak and a host of host of outdoor recreation opportunities from Carlsbad in the Southeast to Santa Fe and Taos in the north. Check out the culture, traditions, outdoors and places New Mexico has to offer. As we say here every adventure has a story. You can start your next one here at #NewMexicoTrue!

If you have questions about the position in Albuquerque, please contact Jeff Fleming, Deputy Regional Director at Jeffrey\_m\_fleming@fws.gov, or 505-248-6809.

credit: USFWS/Dennis Dusenberry

credit: USFWS/Naser Mojtahed

credit: USFWS/Barbara Stewart-Hager

credit: USFWS/Wenshu Chen

credit: USFWS/Catherine Harris

Seeking:

Chief, Division of Migratory Birds (GS-0480-14)

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Regional Office Albuquerque, New Mexico

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Regional Office, located in Albuquerque, is recruiting highly qualified applicants to serve as Chief of its Division of Migratory Birds. If you are up to the challenge of leading collaborative, landscape-scale efforts that directly impact migratory bird populations across North America, we encourage you to apply for this outstanding opportunity.

Here's how to apply:

This position is a Fish & Wildlife Administrator, GS- 0480-14 working in Albuquerque, New Mexico for the R2-Division of Migratory Birds. This is a key leadership position in developing and institutionalizing a biologically-sound, partnership-driven, landscape-scale approach to integrated migratory bird management.

Merit: <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/593976000>

DE: <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/593975500>